

Darwin Day 2011

University of Wisconsin Madison

THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 10, 2011

8:00 - 4:30am Workshop for Science Teachers

Led by Kristin Jenkins of NESCent, and scientists from UW Anthropology.
Registration is required; please visit our website: www.evolution.wisc.edu

12 - 1pm Evolution Seminar Series: *Darwin's Functional Reasoning, Homology, and the Structure(s) of Evolutionary Theory, in WID Forum

Alan Love, Assistant Professor of Philosophy, University of Minnesota-Twin Cities

1:30 - 4:30pm Scientific Outreach Symposium, in WID Forum

Featuring speakers from UW-Madison Departments of Botany, Zoology, Genetics, and Philosophy, with discussion to follow

7:00 - 10:00pm Creation: The True Story of Charles Darwin, in WI Union Play Circle Theater

Film showing, and panel discussion with Drs. Lynn Nyhart and Ron Numbers of UW History of Science, and Dr. Alan Love of U-Minnesota Philosophy.

FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 11, 2011

6:30 - 7:00pm Welcome Reception, in WID Town Hall

7:00 pm Keynote Lecture: *Ecology and behavior of savanna chimpanzees at Fongoli, Senegal, in WID Forum

Jill Pruetz, Associate Professor of Anthropology, Iowa State University

SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 12, 2011

9am-2:00pm Family-Friendly Science Stations - Explore the Tree of Life! in WID Town Hall

Learn about evolutionary science and how it affects the entire Tree of Life, at Exploration Stations staffed by UW-Madison students, faculty, and staff. Receive a prize for visiting all the branches of the Tree of Life!

10:30 - 11:30am Lecture: *Neanderthal genomes: Meet your inner caveman, in WID Forum

John Hawks, Associate Professor of Anthropology, UW-Madison

12:30 - 1:30pm Lecture: *Evolution of the human birth process, in WID Forum

Karen Rosenberg, Professor of Anthropology, University of Delaware

1:30 - 2:00pm Wrap-up Panel Discussion with all speakers, in WID Forum

www.evolution.wisc.edu

WID is the Wisconsin Institutes for Discovery, located at University Ave. and Orchard St.
For more information, please contact Emily Sessa at esses@wisc.edu or 265-5473.

Darwin Day is free and open to the public!

Know Thyself: Humans & Evolution